

Energy Efficiency Awareness Road Show

Rustenburg - 15 June 2007

The South African Association for Energy Efficiency (SAEE) holds road shows at various locations in southern Africa where and when the need arises. Contact Nikki Nel on 018 293 1499 or nikki@sae.org.za.

The Rustenburg road show was a great success. With a number of exhibitors displaying the latest products you need to know about to become energy efficient like: lighting, measuring instruments, solar products, energy efficiency educational information, building systems, etc.

Some very interesting and relevant papers were delivered by LJ Grobler, President of the SAEE on the SAEE and what it stands for; an update on the Eskom DSM stance within South Africa; Henning Holm from Omnibus Engineering spoke on the intricate requirements for commercial and industrial solar water heating; Tlaleng Moabi, the chairperson of BESCO described the difficulties that small energy services companies face within the industry; Dave Bekink from National Power presented a case for saving energy through ventilation optimisation and lastly Dr Elsa du Toit from the DME sketched the Department's current and future activities within the energy efficiency industry.

SAEE Awards and Banquet 2007

Each year the Southern African Association for Energy Efficiency (SAEE) hosts a prestigious Banquet and Annual Awards Ceremony. This event will also celebrate the official opening of the 2nd Southern African Energy Efficiency Convention (SAEEC) 2007 to be held from 25 - 26 October 2007 at Emperors Palace, Gauteng.

The SAEE annually recognizes the outstanding accomplishments of individuals and companies in the energy field through the awards program. The awards are a token to recognise the commitment to their profession, desire to further the association's mission, and participation in civic and community affairs.
